By Anando Zaman

Exercise 4.1.14:: Suppose you use a stack instead of a queue when running breadth-first search. Does it still compute shortest paths?

Solution:
No, because we have need to remove root node which we can't do for a stack as it would require us to remove all of the nodes above that on the stack first in order to access root node to remove.